It's not very often where in the safety business, you have the opportunity to participate in an event like this. OECS currently has 3 former OSHA members on staff. They have tallied over 70 years within OSHA, playing a number of different roles.

Contributions that include developing some of the OSHA standards and programs in place today, visiting thousands of facilities and construction job-sites throughout the Midwest, as well as consulting and investigating some of the most challenging safety situations ever seen!

This is your opportunity to ask questions directly of the panel we've assembled. They are all passionate about helping leaders like you deal with and resolve safety issues in your workplace. They joined OECS to help us fulfill our mission – To Inspire Strong Safety Cultures.

This webinar will:

- Help clarify specific questions you have about OSHA regulations
- Provide context and insight on those “gray areas” involving OSHA
- Advice on how to handle OSHA visits, contesting citations, and other issues
- Share their insight on what they see the best companies do to build strong safety cultures

Tim Peterson, a 25-year veteran of safety at OECS will facilitate the discussion.
